National University of Singapore
Starting July 2020

The National University of Singapore (NUS) invites applications for a Lecturer for Japanese Language on Educator Track Scheme

The purpose of the Educator Track Scheme is to attract, nurture, and retain suitably qualified and highly effective faculty members who approach teaching as a scholarly practice, and who therefore focus on and are passionate about excellence in teaching as a means of supporting student learning. The initial appointment will be made on a 3-year contract, renewable subject to mutual agreement, with a career progression path for promotion (Lecturer > Senior Lecturer > Associate Professor (Educator Track) > Professor).

Applicants for the position should have at least a Master's degree in Teaching Japanese as a Foreign Language or Applied Linguistics, or any Japanese language related field. At least a few years of experience in teaching Japanese as a foreign language and in curriculum development at the tertiary level is required. The appointee's duties will include teaching, curriculum development, module coordination as well as administrative duties. Remuneration will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Relocation, leave, medical and housing benefits are provided in accordance with the applicable NUS regulations. Applicants may contact the Centre if they have any queries.

Applications should include the following: 1. A brief cover letter highlighting the applicant's major accomplishments in teaching; 2. A complete curriculum vitae; 3. A teaching portfolio (3-5 pages each in English and Japanese) providing evidence that the applicant has a strong potential to contribute to student learning. Non-exhaustive examples of such evidence include the applicant's reflection on his/her educational approach/teaching philosophy (required), information on courses taught and student feedback. 4. samples of self-developed lesson plans and materials as well as a link to video recording of their classroom teaching. 5. the names and contact information (e-mail addresses) of three academic referees.
